Space & Optimal Configuration

Outdoor kitchens have become a fixture in the backyard. When building you will want to consider the size of your patio, deck or space where the outdoor kitchen will be located? It is important to make sure the outdoor kitchen footprint is proportional to the space - providing enough room to walk around and congregate. The three most common outdoor kitchen configurations are Straight (S-Series), L-Shape (L-Series) and U-Shape (U-Series). The following Standard Layout and Options guide combines these configurations with appliance packages.

Straight Grill or Island (S-Series)

Straight outdoor grill stations or islands are perfect for small spaces. Can be built on patio perimeter or located on an existing exterior wall. Can add a detached, parallel bar or refreshment station.

L-Shape Bar-Island (L-Series)

L-Shape outdoor kitchen bar-islands, similar to a Straight island can work well in small to medium size spaces and can be located on perimeter of patio. L-Shape layout are a great way to add convenient prep and bar space.

U-Shape Bar-Island (U-Series)

U-Shape outdoor kitchens are the ultimate in prepping, cooking and entertaining outside. A U-Shape requires a medium to large space. The U-Shape also offers convenience with all appliances, utilities and components in one place.

5' S-Series

The 5 ft Outdoor Grill Island Series is the ideal solution for smaller spaces and makes the perfect grill station. The 5 ft Series can be paired with a Kamado Station and/or a separate Bar-Refreshment Station. For the budget conscience it can also be built upon at a later date.
