

About Us

Keith and Melanie Grayson formed Grayson & Grayson, P. A. in October 1995 as a full service law firm. Keith Grayson was a certified public accountant prior to attending law school so the first few years of his law practice career, he concentrated on business litigation, bankruptcy and tax law. Melanie Grayson practiced law with several firms in Little Rock, handling a variety of cases including divorces, custody, civil rights litigation, personal injury litigation, corporate entity formation, wills and trusts, to name a few. Over the years, Keith Grayson began to focus his practice on catastrophic personal injury cases including, but not limited to, 18 wheeler crashes, automobile crashes, motorcycle crashes, boating accidents, airplane crashes, medical negligence, products liability, nursing home negligence and wrongful death cases. More recently, since moving their home and law practice to Heber Springs, Arkansas, both Keith Grayson and Melanie Grayson have developed expertise in oil and gas law due to the drilling activity in the Fayetteville Shale Play. Today Melanie Grayson practices primarily estate planning, wills and trusts, probate litigation, general civil litigation, corporate entity formation and oil and gas law.

Fee arrangements vary from case to case, although most of Keith Grayson's cases are based on a contingency fee. In other words, if he does not win your case you do not owe him any money for the work or costs he expended on your case. However, certain types of cases such as quiet title to minerals, breach of contract, or similar cases are usually taken on an hourly basis. Most of Melanie Grayson's work is either handled on a flat fee or hourly basis for estate planning, wills and trusts, and formation of corporations and LLC's. It is our goal to provide quality legal representation for our clients in a timely, courteous and professional manner. Even though we live and office in Heber Springs, Arkansas, we handle cases statewide. Keith Grayson is a pilot and flies for business and pleasure.
